will not inhibit blacks from being full active participants in the social activities at Davidson. Indeed, having a black fraternity may increase participation. If we feel that we are fully represented on Davidson's campus; academically, athletically, administratively and socially, we might fully participate in the Davidson experience.

While I'm at it: a) While the existing fraternity/eating house system is in fact open for full participation by the entire Davidson College student body, in fact the entire Davidson College student body does not feel welcome to participate in it. Call it negative atmosphere. You do get stared at even if it is done subconsciously; b) Davidson College may be "fairly representative of the society that Davidson students, white and black, will enter after graduation," but that society itself is not equal, and modeling Davidson's environment after that society only serves to underscore and therefore perpetuate the inequality.

The fact that your boss, the owner of your business, and your professors here or anywhere else are not black is a direct result of bias that has been here for 400 years and will continue to be here unless institutions of higher learning such as Davidson that purport to open the minds of its constituents actively work toward erasing that bias. Why aren't your closest friends black (besides the fact that there aren't enough of us here)? Accept and celebrate the differences. Black Greeks, Black Student Coalition, black students, faculty and staff. We are not here to segregate, but to create a new understanding. Having us here does not defer the dream, Mr. Moore. Having us here hastens the coming of the dream.

Accept and celebrate the differences.
